TRIP OVERVIEW

Every summer, monsoon rains coax one of Bhutan's most prized delicacies from the forest floor: the wild matsutake mushroom. This 11-day small-group journey follows the harvest from the pine forests of Bumthang to the farmhouse kitchens where it's cooked, pairing early-morning foraging walks with the classic Bhutanese circuit of dzongs, monasteries and mountain passes. Small groups of no more than 12 travelers keep the pace relaxed and the access personal.
